

Report: One Million Species Threatened With Extinction

Because of Humans.

Nature is in trouble

I can't feed myself, bones jab through skin

 brittle
even the water

 has come to kill
 armed with: heavy metals, solvents, toxic sludge—

 fill my veins,
 rot me rancid,
 feed me my poison.

Today I watched a bee die.

 His fuzzy little body
 twitched three times.

 Then I looked around and I was swarmed by thousands of dying bees falling from the sky like rain and I begged one to sting me take me down, too.